

“If you’re dependent on a sealant, you’ve gotta use Novaflex.”

When you’re the biggest installer of residential metal roofs in a state as big as Texas, you get to know sealants. After wasting time and money on callbacks caused by other sealants, Metal Roofs of Texas, headquartered in Ft. Worth, found Novaflex Metal Roof Sealant. “For me, it’s been awesome,” said CEO Josey Parks.

Novaflex Metal Roof Sealant provides superior flexibility and adhesion to most construction materials. “We tested Novaflex on metal and other surfaces, including brickwork,” said Production Manager Virginia Blackman. “It held up in extreme heat and cold cycles. You can’t break it apart—it’s great.” The guys on the ladders are sold, too. “I prefer Novaflex over any other sealant,” said Roofer Aaron Jostmeyer. “It stays pliable, doesn’t shrink, doesn’t crack. We get no more callbacks. It just costs money to use other brands.”
